Enviro-STUDIO is a landscape architecture and environmental consultancy and planning company that focuses on integrating planning and design with the physical sciences. With the backbone of environmental science, landscape architecture and field botanists we have a strong environmental influence that influences much of our work and designs.

We specialise in tailoring projects to the wide range of skills offered within enviro-STUDIO's close-knit association of consultants. The core of our objectives is to enable the creation of spaces that respond to site characteristics and also reference the surrounding physical area.

Our services include the full scope of landscape architectural services including:

- Site analysis
- Master planning
- Planting design
- Sustainable design
- Project management
- Tender documentation
- Construction specification
- Constructed wetland design and planting
- Playground design (including all abilities)
- Resort design
- Retirement and assisted living
- Parks and recreation planning
- Green infrastructure

as well as:

Environmental consultation services that we offer, which include:

- Initial vegetation and environmental assessment
